Civil Rights Bill Hits Senate Snag

Move To Kill Measure Suspected: Passed House By 279-97 Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House speedily passed the compromise civil rights bill Tuesday 279-97 and the Senate a few hours later overwhelmingly defeated a move to shunt the measure to its Judiciary Committee.

On the Senate roll call the vote was 66-18.

The Senate vote came after a flurry of Southern attacks on the compromise version.

When the bill was called up in the Senate Tuesday night, Sen. Thurmond (D-SC) put in a surprise motion to send it to the Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.).

Many of its supporters construed this as an effort to kill the measure at least for this session.

Leaders of both parties were taken by surprise by the Thurmond motion. Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.), supporting the motion, asked the leaders to put a decision on it off until Wednesday.

But Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas asked for the roll call Tuesday night, saying he had told all senators in Washington to return to the Senate chamber for a vote.

Johnson Irked

Johnson said with some asperity he had not even been given the courtesy of advance notice of the motion, something he said the majority leader generally was considered entitled to receive.

Johnson, a supporter of the bill, had planned to signal for Senate debate on it beginning Wednesday morning.

If the Senate approves the measure, as it is expected to later in the week, Congress will have passed its first basic civil rights legislation in 82 years.

The House passed the bill 279-97 after an hour's debate before packed galleries.

In the Senate the question was not so much whether the bill would be passed as when it would be. Action on civil rights is the key to adjournment.

Long Speeches

Southern senators opposed to legislation said they expect to make their opposition clear (a euphemism for long speeches) but indicated there will be no filibuster against passage this week.

The measure falls far short of what President Eisenhower asked for in the way of civil rights legislation but appears to be the most that could be done this year.

Its principal section would empower the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions against any violation of voting rights or threatened violation.

Southerners fought the bill to the very end in the House, but on the final roll call 151 Republicans and 126 Democrats voted for it. The opposition was made up of 82 Democrats and 15 Republicans.

The compromise centered on a Senate-passed amendment guaranteeing jury trials for persons charged with criminal contempt of court for violating federal court injunctions. Under the amendment, the jury trials would have been guaranteed not only in voting rights cases but in a host of other injunction proceedings.

40-YEAR-OLD WOMAN GIVES BIRTH TO 21ST CHILD

CRANDON, Wis. (AP)—The 40-year-old wife of a farmer-logger Monday gave birth to her 21st child.

The boy, born to Mrs. John Sanz of Argonne in Crandon Hospital, joins 7 brothers and 13 sisters. All were single births.

Mrs. Sanz was married at 15 and had her first baby at 16.

Find Four Bullets In Andersen Girl's Head

CHICAGO (AP)—Pathologists Tuesday found four bullets in the head of Judith Mae Andersen, two of which, they said caused the 15-year-old girl's death. Her mutilated body was found stuffed in two oil cans floating in Lake Michigan.

Coroner Walter E. McCarron said the finding was made in a preliminary examination and that the exact time Judith died could not be established until completion of a scheduled autopsy.

McCarron said four pathologists found the small caliber bullets in the girl's head and that they agreed that two of the slugs were sufficient to cause death.

Police meanwhile checked garages, foundries and factories in the area of the slaying. They said they believed such a building was used in molding the steel coffins the slayer used to dispose of his victim's dismembered body.

The girl disappeared late Friday night, Aug. 16. Her dismembered body was found in two steel drums taken from Montrose Harbor about a week later.

The husky blonde, who would have been a junior at Austin High School this fall, was last seen by her parents when she went out to spend an evening with Elena Abbatocca, also 15, who lives 10 blocks from the Andersen family on the Northwest Side.

Elena told police that the girl had visited briefly a dairy bar operated by Anna Alfano at 3756 W. North Ave. About 7:30 p.m., Elena, said they went to the Abbatocca home to watch television, stopping only long enough to buy potato chips and ginger ale at a grocery.

But Josephine Blandi, 14, who works in the dairy bar for Mrs. Alfano, her grandmother, said Elena and Judith came back to the dairy bar several times during the evening and were loitering outside the place at 10:15 p.m. With them was Elena's brother, Nicholas, 18.

Police said Mrs. Alfano supported her granddaughter's statement in questioning Monday. But, Acting Capt. Thomas Martin said Mrs. Alfano changed her story Monday.

Martin said Mrs. Alfano said Judith and Elena were in the dairy bar only once, between 7 and 7:30 p.m. Martin said Mrs. Alfano accused her granddaughter of fabricating and said that she, herself, had offered no different version.

The investigation centered in the Austin police district where the Andersen and Abbatocca homes are.

Austin Police Capt. Harry Pen in said he plans to ask members of the fleet shrouded in strict secrecy and refused to say why the long planned shore calls had been postponed.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy Tuesday night ordered powerful units of the 6th Fleet to remain at sea in the Mediterranean for the time being. It has cancelled previous plans for vessels and crews to visit ports on the French Riviera.

The Navy left the whereabouts of the fleet shrouded in strict secrecy and refused to say why the long planned shore calls had been postponed.

Soviet Rejects West's Disarmament Proposals

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Russia rejected the West's newest disarmament proposals Tuesday. The Soviet claim to possession of a world-ranging rocket missile was followed promptly by Russian charges the West is preparing for war and torpedoing the London arms talks.

The tone of a Kremlin statement laid before the five-power U.N. Disarmament subcommittee by Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin suggested the Russians may be ready to walk out.

Zorin told police that the girls had visited briefly a dairy bar operated by Anna Alfano at 3756 W. North Ave. About 7:30 p.m., Elena, said they went to the Abbatocca home to watch television, stopping only long enough to buy potato chips and ginger ale at a grocery.

Sentence Three AWOL Sailors On Kidnap Charge

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Three AWOL sailors Tuesday received five-year prison sentences and a fourth got a term in the reformatory for kidnapping another sailor.

Western delegates deplored the tone of Zorin's 90-minute declaration and said it showed increasing rigidity from the Soviet side.

Only Monday night the Soviet Union broadcast the claim that it had successfully fired the first Inter-Continental Ballistic Missile, "showing it is possible to direct rockets to any part of the world."

Houchins was released July 23 when the group arrived at Alton, Ill.

U. S. Dist. Judge Charles G. Briggie gave two concurrent five-year terms each to James Henry Hammond, 31, of Cottage Hills, Ill.; Louis Joseph Holguin, 21, of Turtle Creek, Pa.; and Claude Hammons, 22, of Baughman, Ky.

Burgis M. Duncan, 17, of Anderson, Ind., was handed over to juvenile authorities for detention until he is 21.

Two women, Mary Ester Irill, 31, and Ruth Jean McGuire, 27, both of Boston, pleaded innocent to the charges in an information and were scheduled to be tried Oct. 24.

Eldon Fuchs, attorney for the seamen, said the abduction grew out of a desire by the sailors to visit their homes before being shipped overseas from the Boston Naval Air Station.

U. S. Atty. John Stoddart maintained Houchins went along under threat of harm. He said Houchins was "viciously abducted, taken at the point of a gun that was loaded and stayed loaded all through the trip."

The group was apprehended after Houchins was taken to St. Louis Airport and permitted to make flight reservations back to his base.

Senate Passes Foreign Aid Bill

Vote 62-25 To Appropriate $3,692,710,000: Sent To Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—The $3,692,710,000 foreign aid bill won easy passage in the Senate Tuesday, 62-25.

The bill, providing $500,900,000 more than the House voted and described as satisfactory to President Eisenhower, enjoyed support from both the Democratic and Republican Senate leaders.

Just before final passage, Sen. Ellender (D-La.) proposed that the amount for military aid in the bill be held to the House figure of $1,250,000,000 instead of increasing it to $1,475,000,000 as the Senate Appropriations Committee recommended.

U.S. Doubts Russia Has Intercontinental Missile Ready To Go

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration, while crediting the Russians with "substantial progress" said Tuesday night it doubted the Soviets would have an "operational" intercontinental missile ahead of the United States.

Acting Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles said this in a statement cleared by the White House and the State Department.

He told a news conference there is "no feeling" that development of such super long-range rockets would make America's fleet of jet bombers obsolete.

Moscow's claim Monday of testing a very long-range ballistic rocket "was not surprising, although the timing of it was doubtless significant," he said.

Quarles pointed up the possible significance of the Russian claim by saying that "two-thirds of the Soviet announcement dealt with their disarmament maneuvers."

This fact, he said, "seems revealing as to timing and purpose."

Quarles' statement said U.S. officials have "for some time credited the Soviets with substantial progress in the long-range ballistic missile field and have made it clear that our own work in this same field is being pressed forward on a broad front and with a high priority."

He added that the "immediate significance of the so-called race to develop an intercontinental missile has been greatly exaggerated."

"Time differences in terms of operational readiness will probably not be very great one way or the other," he said.

But this was considered an academic question, since Eisenhower was expected to pocket veto them after the lawmakers leave town.

Some Republican sources said privately that bills with smaller increases are likely to be approved next session, particularly if Congress passes a postal rate increase measure.

Postal employees got an 8 per cent pay increase in 1955, while the classified workers received about 7½ per cent the same year.

Eisenhower has opposed general pay boosts for federal workers at this time on grounds they would be inflationary.

Voting for the postal pay bill were 43 Democrats and 26 Republicans while 3 Democrats—Byrd and Robertson of Virginia and Lausche of Ohio—were opposed.

Rift In The Bamboo Curtain

For eight long years the free world has had to rely upon usually inadequate and infrequent accounts of life behind the Bamboo Curtain in Communist China.

Most of these have come from once-imprisoned soldiers, missionaries, traders and the like. Generally untrained as observers, they have seldom been able to give us a penetrating report.

Now at last we may have a chance for a comprehensive and yet probing look at Chinese life after eight years of Red rule.

The State Department will allow some two dozen American correspondents to enter the country to report what they see if the Chinese Reds go through with their invitation made some time ago. Arrangements are presently stalemates.

It goes without saying that the Peiping government is not interested in having these reporters divulge any brutal and embarrassing truths. The Communists will do their level best, as they do in Russia and its satellites, to control what the U.S. newsmen will see.

But perfect control is impossible, of course. And we can be sure that the American reporters who go into China will measure up to the high standard of U.S. journalism—which means they are trained as no others anywhere to dig beneath the surface, to see what was not intended for viewing.

Coupled with the greater freedom now given Western newsmen in Russia and at least part of its satellite orbit, this entry into Red China represents a potentially significant gain in the quest for truth on the vast Eurasian land mass.

It is incredible to think that since 1949 the free world has been virtually blacked out from any steady, sure knowledge about the most populous country on earth.

Now that the barrier may be lowered, at least for the time, we count upon our seasoned news observers to bring us a lively, discerning and full account which will more than make up for all the years of sparse and distorted news about China.

4. Harrison is surrounded by relatives. His operation is marked by a degree of nepotism that would make some film studios seem pale by comparison.

5. The Confidential setup has been shrewdly planned. The operation has been limited to New York state so as to eliminate tax and other dealings with "foreign states." This has made it difficult to pin the magazine down on legal matters.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—As I was going up the stairs "I met a man who wasn't there . . ."

As the Confidential magazine trial goes into its fourth week today, witnesses have sketched an intriguing picture of the man who wasn't there. He is Confidential publisher Robert Harrison, who is mentioned constantly in the testimony but stays far, far away from the courtroom, in New York.

Actually, there are two pictures of Harrison. According to prosecution witnesses, he is a terrible-tempered man who will go to any extremes to sell magazines. According to defense witnesses, he is a crusader who is out to attack corruption in government and the "false idols" of the entertainment world.

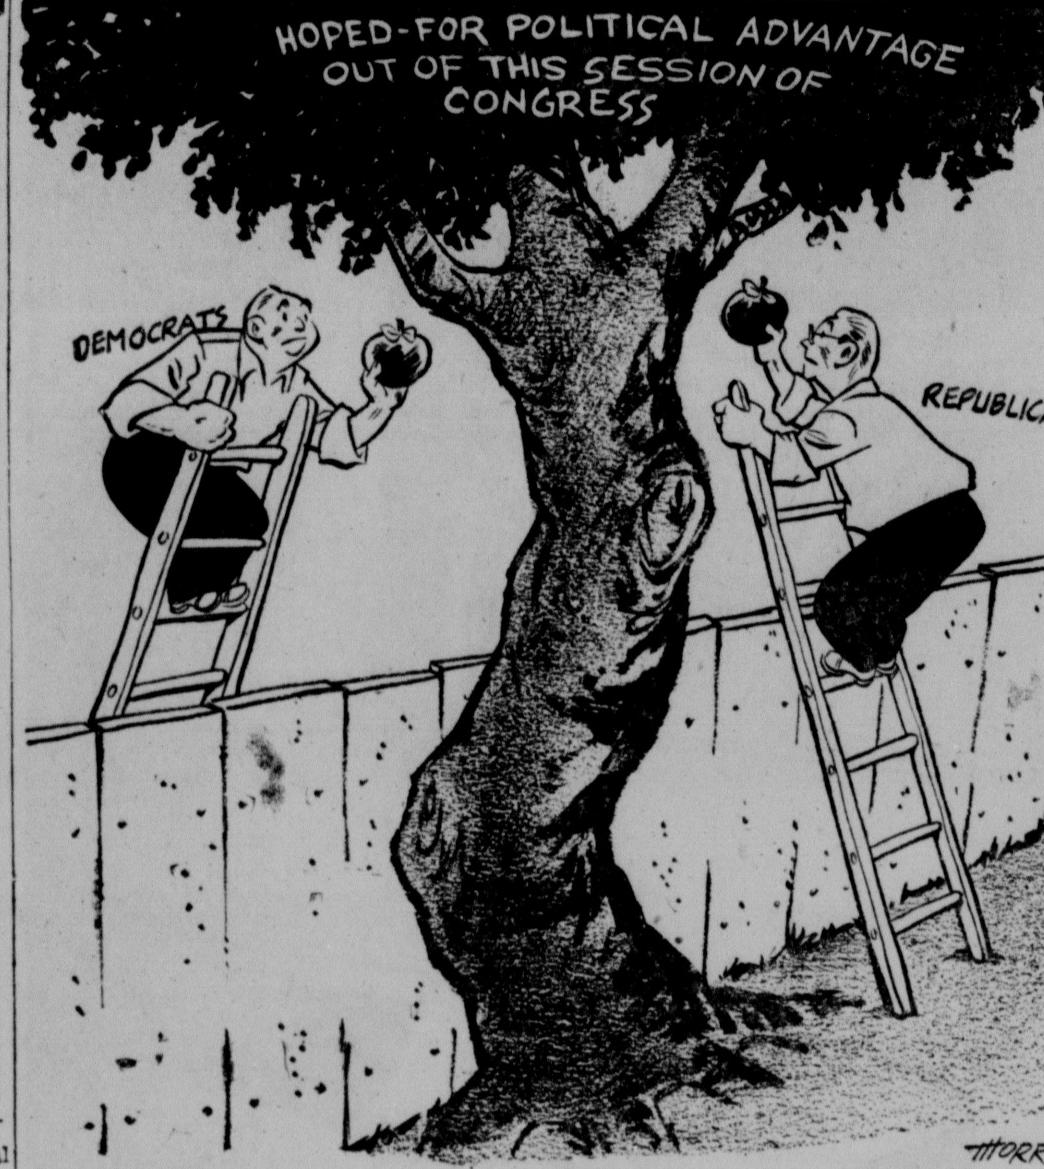

You can take your pick. But can be determined. For instance—

1. There is no doubt that he has been successful. High water mark for Confidential's circulation was around 4 million. Publishing circles figure that to be an audience of from 16 to 25 million readers.

2. Harrison should be a wealthy man. He is reported to earn 14 cents from each 25-cent magazine. His expenses are said to be $300,000 per issue—divided among paper, printing and editorial expense. That means he could net a quarter-million dollars in profit

Not A Big Harvest On Either Side

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negroes and the supporters of civil rights have won a clear-cut victory. Southern whites have suffered a definite defeat.

This is clear after an analysis of the compromise civil rights bill which is expected to be passed by Congress this week.

It's been called a bill to protect Negroes' voting rights. It goes far beyond that. It would have gone further, by letting the attorney general step into all kinds of civil rights cases.

But Southern senators were able to get that part of the bill knocked out. As it stands, the bill would let the attorney general step into voting rights cases only.

That's plenty. So is the rest of the bill. And for the first time in this century, the Southerners were unable to block civil rights legislation.

That may mean more chance for more civil rights legislation in the future.

The bill calls for a commission to investigate all kinds of civil rights violations. The commission would have no powers to act against such violations, as the attorney general could have done under the knocked-out part of the bill. But it could expose.

For example: The commission could investigate the Ku Klux Klan and the White Citizens Council and the White Citizens Councils set up in the South to resist public school integration and integration in general.

The more the commission may reveal—particularly about harassment of Negroes—the more could be the pressure for more legislation. And the commission would have power to hold hearings anywhere in the South.

Because it could issue subpoenas, it could force witnesses to appear and testify.

Under the bill, the attorney general could ask a federal judge for a court order to stop a voting rights violation. Again, there would be exposure. For once a judge issues such an order, he would hold a public hearing to bring out the facts in the case.

And the bill leaves untouched the judge's traditional power to try and jail—without jury—anyone in civil contempt of courts for disobeying his order.

Action against a person for civil contempt is intended to make him comply while there is still time for him to do so. Criminal contempt action is taken when it is too late to comply and is aimed at punishment for flouting an order.

This reservation on Herter's future has now been practically eliminated by the way he has held up and adjusted to the physical demands of the job. He makes it at least justifies the confidence he has put in the tall, serious, slightly stooped Bostonian when he appointed him.

Herter's half year on the U.S. payroll found him immediately thrust into the Mid-East crisis.

He has had to field many of the foul balls the Russians have been hitting at the disarmament talks in London. For the last several weeks he has been inundated with the problems of trying to help the President's foreign aid requests through Congress.

You can find a consecutive three days during the past six months when Secretary Dulles was in or out of town, during which some crisis didn't cross Herter's desk.

He has briefed himself astonishly fast on practically all of America's complex foreign relations problems. He has won the growing confidence of Dulles and the President. He has improved the general mood of the State Department. And he has proved himself an excellent administrator.

Except for one detail, the net effect of his performance would be to enhance his chances for the GOP vice presidential or presidential nominations in 1960. That missing detail is the fact that Herter has become so immersed in his work that he has completely ignored his own political future.

Herter was a U.S. congressman from Massachusetts and a governor of that state. After this experience certain political gestures almost become instinctive to a man still in public life. You keep up your political contacts. You make speeches before the right groups. You keep informed about what's going on where it counts to you politically.

Herter has done none of those things, to the disappointment of the men who seem to push him on to greater things.

The ONE BIG reservation about Herter, which even his most ardent fans shared when he took the job at State, was his health. He has suffered from arthritis, the cause of his slight stoop. His doctors believed it was arrested but there was a serious question of whether his arduous new job might cause a recurrence.

This reservation on Herter's future has now been practically eliminated by the way he has held up and adjusted to the physical demands of the job. He makes it at least justifies the confidence he has put in the tall, serious, slightly stooped Bostonian when he appointed him.

Undulant Fever Often Has Varying Symptoms

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Several correspondents, including Mrs. J. S. have recently discussed the undulant fever.

IT IS also difficult to treat because it calls not only for control of the infection, but elimination of the germ from the body.

This is a rather common disease which is a source of great concern to health officials and physicians.

This disease and its relatives are also important to livestock and dairy interests since germs of this group may produce abortion in cattle and other illness.

Epidemics have been reported from germ-infected milk. In fact, the disease is usually contracted by drinking infected milk or coming in contact with meat from infected animals. It attacks many animals and this fact has made it necessary in many cases to destroy whole herds or flocks.

ALTHOUGH brucellosis remains a serious health problem, some progress is being made. It is being fought in livestock and dairy herds and other animals.

Research work on better methods of diagnosis and treatment are being carried out in many laboratories throughout the world.

The elimination of the disease in dairy herds and other animals, the use of pasteurized milk and care in avoiding infection by contact with infected meat should do much to cut down the danger of contracting brucellosis.

AS A general rule, brucellosis is a chronic and long-lasting condition. It is difficult to diagnose because there is no single test which identifies it with certainty (except a blood test which sometimes fails to reveal it even when present).

Housing Unit For Aged Under Construction

CARROLLTON—A housing unit for the aged is in the process of construction on the lot owned by T. H. Carmody at the corner of Third and Maple avenues in this city. The construction work is being done by Harrison Ritchey of this city and Carmody is planning five three-room efficiency apartments to be built under one roof in the motel styling.

The three-room units will include a living room, bedroom and bath and a small kitchen to be built at the end of the living room and divided from the room by sliding doors. The units will have radiant heat and the floors will be of asphalt tile. The building is of concrete blocks and the exterior will be stuccoed.

The unit is expected to be ready for occupancy within two months and no tenant will be accepted who is not 60 years of age or older.

DIES IN MT. VERNON CRASH

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Avis Brown, 67, of rural Vienna, died in a car-truck smashup south of Mount Vernon Monday.

Her husband, Clyde, 66, who was driving, was in fair condition at Jefferson Memorial Hospital. Clarence E. Jones, 45, of rural Benton, the truck driver, was taken to Franklin Hospital in Benton.

Police say Brown made a left turn into the truck's path.

Mrs. Ida Hill Wins $10,000 K. C. Prize

A 71-year-old Jacksonville widow is losing her old age pension—and is happy about it.

Mrs. Ida Hill, 125 Diamond Court, was the winner of the first award, $10,000 in cash, in the contest completed at the 36th annual Downstate Knights of Columbus picnic held at Farmersville Sunday. Sixty-seven down-state K.C. councils participate in the annual event.

Mrs. Hill lives with her daughter, Mrs. Alma L. Kitson. "It seems that almost everybody knew about me winning before I heard of it," Mrs. Hill said Tuesday. "I went up town yesterday and when I came home the whole family was all smiles."

She said it was the first time she had purchased a participating ticket in the K.C. contest.

"I never was much of a hand to take chances," she said. "But I have played bingo quite a few times."

The check is due to arrive in a day or two and Grand Knight John Kaufmann of the local council will present it to her.

When told that a photograph of the event was desired by the newspaper she laughed and said, "O.K., O.K., but I'll probably be stretched out on the floor."

ASKS FOR ASYLUM

VIENNA (AP)—Two Czechoslovak civilians landed near Mistelbach, in northeast Austria, Monday in a stolen plane and asked Austrian authorities for asylum. Security officials held them for questioning.

Roger Rynders, 16, who is held in the Morgan county jail, is said to have made a statement implicating himself and Paul Roberts, 15, now held in Sangamon county also on a burglary charge.

Burglaries at the Williams hardware store and Paragon cafe last July 19 have been under continuous investigation by the county officers.

Sheriff Jack Andrews said young Roberts will be brought to this county to face the charge, if and when he is released by Sangamon county.

The check is due to arrive in a day or two and Grand Knight John Kaufmann of the local council will present it to her.

When told that a photograph of the event was desired by the newspaper she laughed and said, "O.K., O.K., but I'll probably be stretched out on the floor."

Mayor Issues Back To School Proclamation

Mayor Robert DuBois has signed two proclamations in connection with the reopening of the schools. One proclamation was suggested by Secretary of Labor Mitchell, urging young people to remain in school and get better educations.

The other urged motorists to observe extreme caution in driving after the school term begins Aug. 29.

In the first proclamation Mayor DuBois pointed out that 40 percent of the nation's youth drop out before graduation.

He said preparation for life and work requires an adequate education as a basis for further professional and technical training.

The mayor pointed out that tomorrow's job opportunities will require higher skill than ever before to fill increasing demands from our expanding economy for better trained scientists, engineers, office workers, teachers and skilled craftsmen.

In conclusion, he urged young people of Jacksonville to return to school this fall and complete their education and call upon their parents, management, labor, educators, and all public and private agencies at their command to encourage youth to complete their education and realize their highest potential as future workers and citizens.

School Opening Day was proclaimed in another proclamation which urged that full recognition and complete cooperation be given to Thursday, Aug. 29, by all citizens, school and police officials, and the children themselves, in the interests of safety.

The sequoia tree is estimated to live 2,500 to 3,000 years and reaches heights of more than 300 feet.

Receive Results Of X-Rays Taken At State Fair

Results of the Illinois State Fair X-ray program have been received by Mrs. Verne Anderson, secretary of the Morgan County Tuberculosis Assn. The total number of fairgoers receiving their chest X-ray at the 1957 Illinois State Fair was 13,465. This is 2,355 less than last year.

Percentage-wise based on the over-all attendance, more persons received their chest X-ray than a little sugar and some vinegar, the previous year. This year's fair attendance was 180,000 less than a year ago.

THE CANVAS DAGGER

© 1956 by Helen Reilly
Distributed by NEA Service.

by HELEN REILLY

There was a man lounging in the doorway. She couldn't see the man.

AT 4:35 on the afternoon of October 3 Grant Melville, a portrait painter, fell from the fourth-floor studio of the Melville house on East Tenth St. and was instantly killed. Melville was alone in the house when the fatal accident occurred. His wife and the servants were still at the Melville country place on Long Island, from which the painter had returned that morning. He was at work on a canvas in the studio when he went over to one of the long windows at the front, lost his balance, and crashed to the pavement below.

As in all cases of sudden death, the usual investigation was made. The verdict was accident. There was one dissenting voice.

At around 4 o'clock on that same afternoon, Sarah Casement entered a fifth-floor apartment in the Seldon Arms, an apartment house directly across the street from the Melville house. The apartment was not hers, it belonged to Zita Warren, a friend who was off on a cruise and had urged Sarah to use it.

No one saw Sarah Casement enter the Seldon Arms. If she had been seen she would have been remembered. Her appearance was different, distinctive. She was hatless. Tawny hair curved around her head in a bell, framing striking gray eyes under dark brows, and she wore her clothes carelessly, with a sort of rakish elegance. Sarah was a free-lance copywriter by profession and she had brought work with her to her friend's apartment that afternoon. She didn't immediately settle to it.

Zita Warren's living room was 30 feet long and had three windows. Beyond it the dining room extended for another 15 feet. There was one larger window there. Sarah was at this window when she first noticed the painter in the studio of the little rose-red house with the white shutters directly across the street. He had on a mustard-colored smock. He was a man of medium height with a dark head beginning to bald at the crown. His back was to her. The canvas on which he was painting was facing the street at a slant, and she couldn't see what was on it. The rear of the room was in dimness. The painter held a palette in one hand and a brush or knife in the other. He would apply paint, step back to study the result, his head on one side, and bend forward again.

THESE things went for nothing with Sergeant Ross, and the sergeant was in charge. Back at the precinct it was Ross who reported to Lieutenant Parr, his ranking officer. "The girl's nuts, Lieutenant—hysterical type." He said that the Melville house had been under observation from the moment Grant Melville came through the window; a crowd of passers-by had sprung up on the pavement. No one had left the house. It was securely locked back and front. Every door and every window except in the room where the artist was working was tight. There was no evidence of a visitor. Melville's cigarette stubs and Melville's lone—he smoked a mono-grammed English brand and had a definite way of putting them out—were in an ash tray near the easel, together with a used glass and an empty can of beer.

"And this Miss Casement says someone was there, that someone was upstairs in the studio with Melville just before he went through the window?" Parr asked.

The sergeant smiled. "The invisible man, Lieutenant. The girl says there was someone there, sure—and at the same time she admits she didn't see anyone. It's just an idea she has."

The window across the street was standing at faces south, the studio windows north. The sun could have been in her eyes although she swears it wasn't.

Shadows—all she can talk about is light and shadows—now you see it and now you don't. Nothing definite at all. Nothing you can hang your hat on."

Parr shrugged. "Like I say, the hysterical type—and I guess at that it was a shock. Pretty nasty.

Every bone in Melville's body must have been broken."

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Sports Editor

SEATTLE—(NEA)—Everybody wants to fight Floyd Patterson now. Lined up, in any order, you have Pat McMurtry, Eddie Machen, Zora Folley, Roy Harris, Willie Pastrano, Alex Miteff and even Inge Johnson of Sweden.

Patterson now is a champion who has, as far as contenders are concerned, no aura of invincibility about him. They think he can be taken and they'd like to try.

This means action and the kind of important business boxing has needed for a couple of years now.

While matchmakers, managers and promoters tried to do something about the dead boxing business, it remained for Youth Unlimited, Inc.—and we still haven't even a hazy notion of what it is—to prove a point. It cost the Columbus, Ga., organization a large stack of money to do it, but the fact remains that a dead game guy, strong, willing and pure of heart, if rather inept, can turn in a pretty good job against the current heavyweight champion.

This was shown by Pete Rademacher, of course. If Rademacher, a raw amateur of 28, could win three of the first four rounds as I saw it (the referee gave him only one, but others went as high as three) and come out alive after seven knockdowns, four in one round, then there is a grand chance for anybody who can fight.

McMurtry, a 25-year-old heavyweight from Tacoma, Wash., feels that way. "I'm more convinced now than ever that I can kick Patterson," he says.

We caught McMurtry in action for the first time when he KO'd Bob Olson in Portland, Ore. It proved nothing except he is a big, good-looking fellow. But McMurtry, on seeing Patterson in the flesh for the first time, seemed to pick up a lot, for his purposes.

"He has a lot of fight," Pat said. "He punches with both feet off the floor. He crosses his right foot behind his left when he steps to the left. He is easily hit. He's not any part of the finisher I was told he was. He doesn't follow up an advantage. Instead, he stays back with his hands up. From what I've seen of him on television—and particularly of his fight with Rademacher—I would say he lacks the killer instinct."

McMurtry is a crew-cut Irishman with a stage, rather than a fighter's nose, and is totally unmarked after 102 amateur and 28 professional outings, plus a stretch of heavier duty as a Marine Air Branch sergeant in Korea.

He wasn't talking for pleasure, either. Emil Lence, the little New York cloak and suiter who has the major promotional rights to Patterson, had a long talk with Clarence McMurtry, the father who manages his handsome and highly promising son. Lence wants McMurtry for a Yankee Stadium title shot next June.

Patterson, who further made it perfectly clear that he needs experience, wants to fight three or four times a year. Lence is working to please him. He is seeking an opponent for a late November title match in New York's huge Kingsbridge Armory.

D'Amato has made it clear Machen and Pastrano turned down chances to meet Patterson and he holds it against them. Before the Rademacher bout, Cus spoke of Zora Folley and Nino Valdes, the latter to be taken on in Cuba.

But other heavyweights are thinking now and if Roy Harris of Cut and Shoot, Tex., can get over Pastrano in their rematch in Miami Beach, the pistol packing school teacher would be part of a Lence promotion in Houston or Miami in February.

So Pete Rademacher did a little more than turn an anticipated farce into a grand show with his courageous stand against Patterson. He shrewdly heavyweight championship wide open.

The feeling here is that he also gave a lesson to the National Boxing Association and the various state commissions, particularly New York. The match was no disgrace to boxing, as they protested it would be. There have been a lot worse productions approved. This should teach commissions to mind their own business.

Nice Guys Don't Win Pennants-So They Say-Lopez Trying Anyway

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Maybe nice guys don't win pennants, as Leo Durocher once said, but gentlemanly Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox certainly gives it a good try. Quiet-spoken Lopez, for the seventh straight year, has a team giving the doughty New York Yankees a stiff argument in the American League.

Lopez, who took over the Pale Hose this year, never finished worse than second in his six seasons with the Cleveland Indians and currently has his runner-up Sox menacing the Yankees. A's 1954 Tribe beat out the Yankees for the pennant.

The Sox and Yanks Tuesday night opened a three-game set at Comiskey Park which could set up a tougher September stretch drive than New York's Casey Stengel might care to have.

Haney Sorry He Heard Fans Boo Erskine, Roberts

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Haney, manager of the Milwaukee Braves, said Tuesday he wished he hadn't been around to hear fans boo pitchers Carl Erskine and Robin Roberts.

"Maybe I'm an old sentimental, but it will be a long time before I forget two things I wish I hadn't seen," said Haney.

"One was over in Brooklyn where the dead game little son of a gun, Carl Erskine, came out sore arm and all and tried to pitch for the Dodgers last Saturday. He couldn't, he didn't, but that didn't stop him from trying."

"I got to thinking about Erskine all over again when I saw Robin Roberts walk off the mound in Philadelphia on Sunday. It is bad enough that he got knocked out, but the way the fans booted him as he took that long, sad walk to the dugout. Honest, I felt sorry for him."

Harry Markson, IBC managing director said doctors plan to keep Norris in the hospital for observation until Thursday.

Also stricken, but not as severely as Norris, were Ned Irish, executive vice president of Madison Square Garden, and Sidney O. Friedman, an IBC attorney.

Banks Leads Cubs To 9-4 Win Over Newcombe, Bums

BROOKLYN (AP)—Ernie Banks drove in five runs with his 30th home and a double Tuesday night as the carefree Chicago Cubs walloped big Don Newcombe early and defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 9-4. The defeat dropped the third place Brooks eight games behind in the National League pennant race.

Rookie Dick Drott needed relief help in the ninth after giving up Gil Hodges' two-run 22nd home, but claimed a 12-10 record and at least one victory over every club in the league.

The seventh place Cubs, who have won 10 of their last 14 and 16 of 23, scored four in the first three on Banks' home run, off Newk and got rid of the one-time Dodgers ace when he issued his third walk and gave up the second of Chicago's three hits in the second.

Newcombe, who has been idle six days because of a stiff back, now is 10-11.

Chicago 401 400 000—9 10 1 Brooklyn 110 000 002—4 6 0 Drott, Lown (9) and Neeman; Sennett (4), Erskine (7) and Campagna, W.—Drott, L.—Newcombe. Home runs—Chicago, Banks, Brooklyn, Hodges.

Whites Boycott Colp School For Second Day

COLP, Ill. (AP)—White pupils boycotted a previously all-Negro grade school again Tuesday in a protest over integration.

None of an estimated 40 white pupils in the school district showed up for the start of the fall semester Monday and they remained away from classes Tuesday. There was no demonstration.

Eighteen of the white children enrolled in the nearby Carterville grade school and will pay an annual tuition of $200.

A reporter who asked Mayor Frank Caliper where the other white children would attend school was told "it is none of your business." It was a matter that concerned only Colp residents the mayor said.

Colp is a town of 250 in the southern tip of Illinois, 80 miles southeast of St. Louis and 40 miles from the Kentucky line. Half of its residents are Negroes.

There are four Negroes on the seven-man school board which voted 4-3 two months ago to integrate the town's two schools.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois dove season opening Sunday will be a special kind of bird-watching contest between those who favor and those who fight protection for this gray migrator.

Attempts to win an Illinois legislative ban on shooting the Mourning dove were unsuccessful early this year.

One of the battlegrounds was whether doves shot in the state were nesting here or merely passing through. Destruction of the nesting birds to any great extent would be considered a good argument for protection.

Legislators are asking for data on the question. Lewis E. Martin, assistant Conservation Department director, says Illinois Natural History Survey investigations indicate few nesting doves are shot in Illinois.

The Yogi man had a banner night. In addition to his homer, he drove in three more runs with a pair of singles and a double.

Mickey Mantle, battling for the American League batting title, drew a pair of walks and was otherwise held to one single in four official trips.

Proponents of protection are expected to do the same thing.

The daily limit on doves is 10 birds and the possession limit is the same.

The limits were increased by federal authorities by two birds over the last season's allowance, which included five fewer days. Shooting hours are from half-hour before sunrise to sunset.

Squirrel hunting, in progress in southern Illinois, also opens in the northern half of the state on Sunday.

The same $3 hunting license for squirrels permits hunting of doves. The latter, though a migratory bird subject to federal regulation, may be shot without a federal license.

Illinois may make more rigid rules than the federal government on creatures it controls, but the states may not relax federal minimums.

The Yankees opened their 16-hit barrage early with two runs in the first on Hank Bauer's single, walks to Mantle and Berra and Bill Skowron's two-run single off starter Jim Wilson.

Three more runs came in the second on singles by Bobby Richardson and Enos Slaughter, a walk to Mantle, Berra's two-run single and an infield hit by Skowron.

The Sox kayoed starter Art Ditmar in the third with a three-run uprising on Fred Hatfield's double, a single by Luis Aparicio, Nellie Fox' triple and a single by Minoso.

The Yanks went ahead 6-3 on their uneven tally in the fourth

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Stan Musial, the great St. Louis Cardinal star who has been sidelined by an injured shoulder, went into the lineup of a suspended game with the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night and established a National League record of playing in 895 consecutive games. The Cards won the game 11-2, then immediately began a regularly scheduled contest.

The old record of 822 consecutive games was set by first baseman Gus Suhr of the Pittsburgh Pirates who didn't miss a contest for Sept. 11, 1931 to June 4, 1937. The all-time major league mark is 2,130—set by the late Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees.

Tuesday night's suspended game was picked up in the top of the ninth with the Cards ahead 11-2 and Ken Boyer on first base. It was held July 21st because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew law. Musial used the game as a runner for Boyer, then went to first base as the Pirates took the field for the ninth inning.

Musial had played the first game of a twin bill here July 21 but did not start the second game.

Thus, by his insertion into the lineup he was able to keep his consecutive game streak running. He played his 895th consecutive game Aug. 22 at Philadelphia when he pulled a muscle in his left shoulder. He hadn't played since until his appearance Tuesday night.

Musial is employed as a printer on the Fowlersville (Mich.) Weekly Review. He was classified IA after a previous examination and ordered to report for active duty Sept. 1. But Richard Rudnicki, publisher of the paper, protested that he pitched his third consecutive victory.

Camillo Pascual was the loser for Washington, dropping his twelfth decision. The fireballer has won eight games.

Pascual, Clevenger (7) and Bergeret; Urban and Smith, L.—Pascual.

Williams hit the 450 home run of his major league career — his 32nd this season — with a man aboard in the fifth inning. He added a single in four official at-bats and raised his batting average to .380.

Boston 000 120 110 02—7 12 2 Detroit 300 200 000 00—5 10 1 (11 innings)

Fornieles, Delock (8), and Daley, White (8); Poyntack, Byrd (6); Steater (9), Maas (9) and House, W.—Delock, L.—Maas.

Home runs—Boston, Williams, Pierall.

The defeat went to veteran Vic Wertz.

The defeat went to veteran Ray Moore, who is now 9-10. He was removed for a hit in the eighth inning.

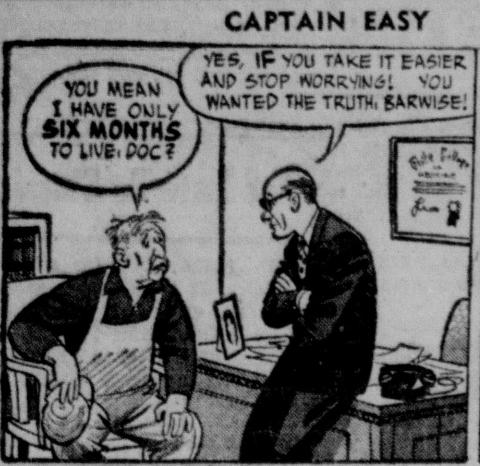

Gem Woodling, the Indians' top hitter, was hit on the right elbow by a pitched ball and was taken to Lakeside Hospital for X-rays.

Baltimore 101 011 000—4 8 1 Cleveland 220 100 00x—2 8 0

Moore, Lehman (8) and Triandos; Wynn and Hegan, L.—Moore.

Home runs—Cleveland, Avila, Pierall.

The defeat went to veteran Vic Wertz.

LATE DEMAND
STEADIES WHEAT, CORN LOSES

New York Stock Market

BY EARL AKROD

CHICAGO, ILL.—Improved demands for wheat which came late in the trading session steadied the bread grain on the Board of Trade Tuesday.

Down fractionally in early dealings, reflecting Monday's downturn, wheat futures later rallied on strength in the cash market and buying credited to flour mills against flour sales. The Commodity Credit Corp. announced award to U.S. mills on 869,740 sacks of flour for export distribution.

Most other grains, with the exception of corn, also closed steady.

New crop wheat closed unchanged to 7/4 higher, corn 3/4 to 3/4 lower, oats 1/4 to 3/4 higher, rye 3/4 to 1/4 higher, soybeans 1/4 lower to 1/4 higher, and lard 10 to 20 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Corn continued a downward trend, influenced by hedging and liquidation. Further sales of government owned corn in both the domestic and export market helped depress prices as did lower cash corn prices and liberal release at terminal markets.

Soybeans declined in early dealings when overnight frost predicted for Minnesota and North Dakota failed to materialize. A late rally, however, carried most soybean deliveries up to around previous closing levels. The September contract advanced 1/4 cents on short covering.

Weather conditions over the main soybean producing areas continued unsettled with additional precipitation and bad weather again predicted.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO, ILL.—The hog market was higher Tuesday with butchers and sows selling 25 cents higher in an active trade.

Top price of $21.75 was paid for some No. 1 and 2 grade butchers scaling 200 to 220 pounds. Other of the same weight and grade brought up to $21.50. Butchers scaling 200 to 280 pounds and grading 2 and 3 brought $21.00 to $21.50. Mixed grade lots around 185 to 195 pounds sold from $20.00 to $21.00. Mixed sows scaling 325 to 400 pounds went from $19.00 to $20.50. Lighter weights brought $20.75.

Fed steers were steady to 35 cents up and heifers and cows were fully steady. Bulls were weak to 25 cents down and vealers, stockers and feeders steady. Choice and prime steers sold from $24.00 to $27.50, the top. Most good steers sold from $21.50 to $24.00. High choice and low prime heifers brought $24.75 to $25.25.

Spring lambs were up 25 cents with choice and spring type bringing mostly from $24.50 to $25.50. A few selected prime type sold for $26.00, the top.

New York Stock Market

BY ED MORSE

NEW YORK, ILL.—The stock market rallied vigorously Tuesday in a comeback from recent losses, scoring a gain on average not exceeded since last Nov. 1.

The size of Tuesday's rally was matched by the bounce of last Feb. 13 but has not been bettered since Nov. 1 when President Eisenhower said the United States would stay out of the Egyptian conflict.

The advance Tuesday was fueled both by technical considerations and by the news, Wall Streeters said.

Pivotal stocks gained fractions to $4 or more, closing a trifle below their best of the session.

Many issues were oversold in the setbacks of the last three sessions, brokers said, and were due for at least a temporary rise.

But further impetus was lent the market by hopes of stepped-up defense spending due to the Russian announcement of reported success with its new intercontinental Ballistic Missile, combined with the Soviet rejection of the West's terms for a two-year ban on nuclear weapon tests.

Bullish sentiment was bolstered also by the Senate move to restore about half a billion dollars in foreign aid, by the big leap in machine tool orders and the rise in steel output.

The net effect was an estimated rise of about $2,840,000,000 in the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, more than wiping out Monday's sharp loss.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $2.30 to $173.80 with the industrials up $.45, the rails up $.30 and the utilities up 20 cents.

Volume totaled 2,250,000 shares compared with 2,680,000 Monday.

New York Bond
Market

CHICAGO, ILL.—A late upsurge in convertibles gave the bond market a higher tone Tuesday.

Investment quality industrials, utilities and high grade rails generally scored gains, while some long-term rails gave a little ground.

U. S. government bonds were unchanged to higher.

Corporate bond transactions on the New York Stock Exchange totaled $3,890,000 par value compared with Monday's $3,750,000.

GO TO CHURCH

A tall brick chimney, the lone survivor of the devastating fire which destroyed the Literberry church Tuesday, is shown in the background of the picture. This is the way the church looked after the fire had burned with intense heat for nearly two hours.

Firemen are shown here as they worked with the bucket lines feeding the water supply to the fire trucks. The water had to be carried to the trucks and then pumped into the hoses. Many local citizens helped with the water carrying process.

Firemen working to save the Church of Christ at Literberry Tuesday were greatly hampered by the poor water supply. Shown above is the fireman as he dips into one of the nearby cisterns.

Water was transported from several of these nearby wells by bucket lines to the fire.

the other," he said.

An official spokesman said the words "operational readiness" could be underlined in the statement to point up the big gap in time and effort between launching one test missile, as the Russians claimed Monday, and the building of a complex system capable of firing many missiles on a moment's notice in time of war that could reasonably be expected to find their targets.

Secretary of State Dulles took much this same tack in answering questions earlier about the Russian announcement.

Dulles said there was no reason to think the Russian test would initially have much effect on the balance of military power in the world.

And he challenged Russia's claim that its missile development has suddenly outdated the powerful American Strategic Air Force.

Dulles spoke out in commenting on Radio Moscow's announcement Monday, which claimed the Russians have successfully tested the world's first intercontinental missile.

The huge Russian rocket, Moscow contended, will "make it possible to reach remote areas without resorting to a strategic air force, which at the present time is vulnerable to up-to-date means of antiaircraft defense."

In answering questions, Dulles said he had no particular reason to doubt the truth of the Russian report because past Soviet claims in this field have had some supporting fact.

The government's far-flung intelligence agencies are carefully checking the Soviet claim.

But, he said, even if it is true

"initially it will affect the military balance of power" between the two superpowers.

Dulles said gains by leftist forces in Syria during the past two weeks in his view are more important reasons for continuing foreign aid than Russian missile successes.

"But they all go to how," he added, "that we face a formidable threat and the importance of maintaining adequate mutual defense against it."

On the rooftops in Tibet (western China) are strange devices which resemble television antennae. In reality they are devices which are supposed to entangle passing ghosts.

Lt. Gov. Chapman In Address Commends Strides In Therapies

"We commend you for the strides you are making in the field of Activity Therapies," Lt. Gov. John W. Chapman told a large audience Monday night at the Thirteenth Annual Activities Therapy Institute, in progress at the Illinois School for the Deaf.

"You have our wholehearted support in your institute," the state official said, "in your training courses and in the daily application of the new methods and techniques you are applying in our state program of mental health."

The institute opened Monday with greetings from Superintendents Thomas K. Kline of the Illinois School for the Deaf, and will continue through Wednesday.

Compares Today's Institutions

Lt. Gov. Chapman went on to compare the mental institutions of yesterday with those of today, pointing out the progress that is being made. "It is important that leaders in state government assume a widening responsibility for the continuing improvement in the institutions which care for the mentally ill," he asserted.

Lt. Gov. Chapman urged the passage of the bond issue, a considerable proportion of which would be used in the mental hospitals. To improve the treatment and training programs in our state institutions, he said, "The state as an administrative unit is only a portion of the total force and is dependent on public interest and support to the extent that the public is educated and concerned."

Mental Health Important

He pointed out that "consideration of mental health is assuming its rightful place in industry, religious circles and in schools and colleges."

Lt. Governor Chapman was formally presented to the assembly by Doctor Otto L. Bettig, Director of the Department of Public Welfare. In his introduction, Doctor Bettig again expressed his wholehearted support of the program and his great interest in improving the training and rehabilitation programs in state institutions. In closing this first meeting of the institute, Doctor Bettig warmly seconded Lt. Governor Chapman's words of approval of the services now being rendered by the state workers present.

350 Persons Attend

Assembled at the institute are approximately 350 recreation, occupational and industrial therapists as well as vocational rehabilitation supervisors, musicians and teachers from the mental hospitals, state schools for the mentally retarded, the School for

Scout Leaders Plan District Activities

Scouts from Meredosia, Beardstown, Virginia, Chandlerville and Jacksonville met Monday evening at Jefferson school in Jacksonville to plan for Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer activity during the coming months. Olen Gotschall, District Chairman, heard reports from each of the operating committees.

Training for Scout leaders was announced by Morris Gotschall, who emphasized the Cub Scout leader training session which will be held at Lincoln school Wednesday evening, Aug. 28, at 7:30. He urged Den Mothers, Cubmasters and Pack Committeemen to avail themselves of the opportunity to prepare a superior program for their Cub Scouts. On the following Wednesday, additional training will start, with the Den meeting.

Training Begins Oct. 23

Boy Scout Leaders' Training will begin on Oct. 23. He also stated that of district Scoutmasters, 47% were trained; Cubmasters 61% and Explorer leaders 75%. The training committee is anxious for all new leaders, including Den Mothers, to try to get the three basic sessions as soon as possible.

Advancement Chairman Oliver Buck announced an extra meeting of the District Character Court for Sept. 23. Boys who advanced in rank at camp, or since that time, will have an opportunity to be reviewed. Buck also told district members to make sure that their candidates submitted their applications to the Council office at least two weeks before that time, in order to allow sufficient time for reference letters to be returned to the advanced committee.

Resigns From Committee

District Chairman Gotschall accepted with regret the resignation of Russell Walton, whom he had done a fine job as chairman of the District Camping and Activities Committee. Paul Smith was appointed chairman.

Camping and Activities plans include a Scout Rally Day, Oct. 19, which will be conducted on a community basis. Details of the rally will be announced at the September Boy Scout Leaders' Roundtable meeting at Salem Lutheran school. Corbin Thomas, Virginia, was introduced as a new member of the Camping committee.

Heads Cass County Work

Larry Bottoms, Larry and Extension committee chairman, introduced a new committee member from Chandlersville, John Honens. He will assist interested persons in Cass county with new pack and troop organization. The committee reviewed organi-

Final Rites For Samuel Hansmeier

Funeral services for Samuel F. Hansmeier were held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Concord Methodist church. The Rev. Robert Birdsell officiated.

Mrs. Opaline Swisher sang "Beyond the Sunset" and "Going Down the Valley" accompanied at the organ by Robert Wegehoff.

Assisting with the flowers were Mrs. Elmer Roegge, Mrs. Frances Dunlap, Mrs. Tom Crawford, Mrs. Virgil Wegehoff and Mrs. Eugene Kershaw.

Pallbearers were Virgil Wegehoff, Ernest Parker, Carl Robinson, Floyd Goodpasture, Roscoe Goodpasture, Henry Hansmeier, August Hansmeier and Eugene Kershaw.

Burial was in the Concord cemetery.

STARLIGHT RINK RE-OPENS

Fri. night 8 to 11 Starting Labor Day regular hours

FIRE RAZES LITERBERRY CHURCH

Pictured above is the well known Church of Christ at Literberry as it appeared late yesterday afternoon. Nearly destroyed in the foreground of the picture is the belfry in which many believe the fire began. Firemen worked for nearly two hours under difficulties before they gave the building up as a total loss. The frame building was in good condition having been almost completely remodeled last summer.

District 117 Schools Will Open Thursday

Schools in District No. 117, Jacksonville, South Jacksonville, North Jacksonville, Woodson, Murrayville, Lynnnville, and Literberry, will open Thursday, August 29. Elementary children will attend part of the morning only on Thursday. Friday will be a full day of school.

Buses will follow the same routes on the first day that they followed last spring. High school students will be picked up between 7:00 and 7:45 and elementary children between 8:00 and 8:45 a.m. Buses hauling elementary children will leave schools at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, and junior high students will be dismissed at 11:30 a.m.

All elementary and junior high cafeterias will begin operation on Friday, while the high school cafeteria will open Tuesday, Sept. 3. The price of meals will be 30 cents in elementary and junior high, and 35 cents in the high school.

On Thursday book and supply lists are given out. Book rental and pupil insurance in the elementary grades will again cost $6.00. In addition, children will need gym shoes, workbooks and other items. Fees, books, and insurance will be explained to junior and senior high school students on Thursday and Friday.

Gotschall called on R. L. Thompson of Springfield for discussion on financing in the Scout program. The Abraham Lincoln Council Scout Executive stated that the Constitution of the Boy Scouts of America was explicit in banning solicitation of funds by any Cub Scout, Boy Scout or Explorer. This applies regardless of the purpose for which money is raised.

The District Committee Scouts in Morgan county pledged their assistance to the Community Chest in its annual drive.

Scouting in other communities of the district will be paid for by independent finance campaigns to be launched on Oct. 15 throughout the state. The coordination is in the timing of the campaigns, not in use of funds. All money raised goes to the local council.

The September district meeting is scheduled to be held at Grace Methodist church.

Training for Scout leaders was announced by Morris Gotschall, who emphasized the Cub Scout leader training session which will be held at Lincoln school Wednesday evening, Aug. 28, at 7:30. He urged Den Mothers, Cubmasters and Pack Committeemen to avail themselves of the opportunity to prepare a superior program for their Cub Scouts. On the following Wednesday, additional training will start, with the Den meeting.

Training Begins Oct. 23

Boy Scout Leaders' Training will begin on Oct. 23. He also stated that of district Scoutmasters, 47% were trained; Cubmasters 61% and Explorer leaders 75%.

The training committee is anxious for all new leaders, including Den Mothers, to try to get the three basic sessions as soon as possible.

Advancement Chairman Oliver Buck announced an extra meeting of the District Character Court for Sept. 23. Boys who advanced in rank at camp, or since that time, will have an opportunity to be reviewed. Buck also told district members to make sure that their candidates submitted their applications to the Council office at least two weeks before that time, in order to allow sufficient time for reference letters to be returned to the advanced committee.

Resigns From Committee

District Chairman Gotschall accepted with regret the resignation of Russell Walton, whom he had done a fine job as chairman of the District Camping and Activities Committee. Paul Smith was appointed chairman.

Camping and Activities plans include a Scout Rally Day, Oct. 19, which will be conducted on a community basis. Details of the rally will be announced at the September Boy Scout Leaders' Roundtable meeting at Salem Lutheran school. Corbin Thomas, Virginia, was introduced as a new member of the Camping committee.

Heads Cass County Work

Larry Bottoms, Larry and Extension committee chairman, introduced a new committee member from Chandlersville, John Honens. He will assist interested persons in Cass county with new pack and troop organization. The committee reviewed organization methods, and a training film for new parents in the Cub Scout program. The ever-increasing number of available boys in the district will assure the committee of much work in coming months.
